I hope the California fires are over for a while. I know at least one person on this list who lost their home and there are probably more. It was just devastating. Winds are forecast to pick up again but hopefully, it'll just blow with no fire. The walk was a good one with 26 species observed, 1.1 more than predicted. Our standout birds were the Cassin's Kingbird, Hutton's vireo, and California Scrub-Jay. We do this all over again on Wednesday, two days from now. See some of you there.
