Walk lasted between 12:00 and 14:15

So, this was the week number where the all-time record number of species was observed, 37. We did not get close, but our 28 beat the median by 8 and the prediction by 4.5. So, it was a very good walk. We finally saw some Gulls and we also are seeing quite a few more Starlings and White-crowned Sparrows than expected. Next week, the record for the week is only 29, one more than we got in this walk, so we should have a good chance at breaking the weekly record.
