Ok, we were under the predicted number of species by 1.6 birds, but 22 is not bad. Nowhere close to the maximum for the week of 29 but 3 above the median of 19. The yellow-rumped warblers cooperated by not showing up. Their next appearance should be week 40. This week the checklist covered all the birds seen; I did not have to scribble any in at the bottom of the sheet. I have finished the spreadsheet with all 52 checklists and will try to post it to the website today.
