Walk lasted between 12:00 and 13:48.

So, another good walk. We recorded 23 species, right on the prediction of 22.5; 4 above the median and only 4 short of the record for the week. And we landed a Warbling Vireo, which was actually on the list as 62% probable, which surprised me. We didn't miss much. The only bird above 50% probable that we didn't see was a Spotted Towhee. And we saw that one last week. So we are being pretty efficient.
