Walk lasted between 12:00 and 13:40.

We had a good walk. A little cooler than the previous week, but we did appreciate the waters that Chris bought for all of us at the Broad Café halfway through. This is not the first time she's done that for the group. So, thank you, Chris! My turn next time. We observed 18 species, 5 above the median for the week and only 4 short of tying the record. But that record is a tough one to tie, as the only bird we didn't see with greater than or equal 38% probability was a Red-masked Parakeet, at 75%. We haven't seen one of those in a long time. It's summer; 18 is not a bad number. The prediction was only 16.5.
