Walk lasted between 12:00 and 13:45

Through what I will call a statistical fluctuation, we had only two walkers today. But those two did a good job, observing 20 species, just 1.2 birds short of the predicted number. We are having trouble with finches. We did not see any House Finches or Lesser Goldfinches. I wonder what is going on with them. I don't think that is on the two walkers; if they were there, we would have noticed them. Otherwise, it was a very nice walk, with a Ruby-crowned Kinglet and a Townsend's Warbler being my favorites. The Nuttall's Woodpecker was a treat too.
