Walk lasted between 12:00 and 14:12

So, this walk was pretty similar to last week's walk. We observed 25 species, whereas last week we got 26. We were well above the prediction of 20.6, but well below the maximum for the week of 31. I think the most unusual aspect of the walk was the lack of a Dark-eyed Junco. It was 100% probable and yet we didn't see one. We did get a couple of interesting birds, the Western Flycatcher and Cassin's Kingbird. It was a good walk.
