Walk lasted between 12:00 and 13:49

It was hot again but that didn't dissuade the birds. We had 13 by the time we left Arden Rd. after 15 minutes of observing. That projected out to 104 for the walk. We didn't get 104. We got 22, which was 2 better than the prediction, and 6 short of the maximum for the week. It included two zero-probability birds, California Scrub-Jay (times 3!) and American Robin (times 4!). So, it was a god walk. We had three warblers but not the Yellow-rumped yet. We should see it next week as it is 62% probable. We had some missing birds that we normally see: California Towhee, House Finch, and Band-tailed Pigeon. The towhee and the pigeon were both 100% probable for this week, but they won't be that next year. Nonetheless, good walk.
